

Make an effective portfolio this fall!

This fall, American River College professor, Jiayi Young is offering a portfolio course. The course can help many artists in the community. You can walk away with a beautiful portfolio feeling confident about your next step in your artistic career.

This course is suitable for anyone who has existing artwork (traditional or new media or a combination of the two) and is interested in putting together a suitable online and/or hand-held portfolio for their purposes. The portfolio can be tailored for application to art schools (or art departments), gallery exhibitions, artist residencies, arts grants, or graphics jobs. Interview techniques will also be discussed. There are no prerequisite courses required as long as there is existing artwork for a portfolio. Look forward to an actively engaging teaching/learning environment.
